A MONTH OF FREE COMMUNITY CULTURAL EVENTS CULMINATES IN HAUNTED PASEO BORICUA

By Xiomara Rodriguez

This October has been filled with community joy and much needed connection at ¡WEPA! Mercado del Pueblo thanks to a grant made possible by the Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events as well as funding from the Walder Foundation. El Jolgorio de Salsa y Más... event series brought the Humboldt Park community a Puerto Rican fall pop-up experience for families with pumpkin painting, fall themed carnival games, a vejigante photo booth, and traditional Puerto Rican hot chocolate all under the name Paseo Boricua Encantado "Enchanted Paseo Boricua". In addition to the free Puerto Rican fall pop-up experience, the month brought free community painting classes with local Humboldt Park muralists

Cristian Roldán and Luis Muñoz, an open mic hosted by poet Luis Tubens, salsa classes from local salsa instructor Angela Townsend, a drag show by local drag performers, and so much more. The Jolgorio de Salsa y Más event series will conclude with a special all day street festival on Halloween called "Haunted Paseo". You can bring the whole family on October 31st to enjoy a completely free, family-friendly street festival with a performance by the circus company -- La Vuelta ensemble. There will be stilt walkers, a scavenger hunt, a costume contest, and countless games. October has been a special time for our community to enjoy all the incredible local talent Humboldt Park has to offer. Since the start of the COVID-19 pandemic, artists have struggled to continue working, which is why The Puerto Rican Cultural Center is working with the Chicago Presents recovery grant for artists. In this way we support our local cultural creators/artists during this difficult period.
